A close-up photograph of a perforated metal sign channel. The channel is a light beige or off-white color and features a regular grid of small, circular holes. A rectangular sign, also in a light beige color, is attached to the right side of the channel. The sign is blank and has a slightly raised, beveled edge. A small metal fastener or clip is visible on the right side of the channel, securing the sign. The background is slightly out of focus, showing a dark green curtain and a light-colored wall.
